A house costs...

The cost of materials to build a basic home and latrine is not included in your trip fees. The cost of these materials is NZ$10,000 per home and is funded from donations. We encourage our trip attendees to donate towards the homes that they will be building. Further information on how to donate is contained on www.globaltribe.co.nz.

EVERY TRIBE-EVERY TOUNGE-EVERY NATION

Join us to build a family a home in the slums of Mexico

NO BUILDING EXPERIENCE REQUIRED!

Building Better Lives Together

MEXICO - a land of beauty and contrast

Beautiful beaches and dry desert dominate the Baja Peninsula on the Pacific coast of Mexico. Just one hour south of the US/Mexico border are the slums in Tijuana, Mexico; a dry dusty area where a beautiful people are trapped in the cycle of poverty.

The ideal trip for your community or church group

As well as being great for individual travellers, this trip is ideal for your community or church group expedition. We take the hassle and expense out of organizing your own trip! In addition to providing established projects, experienced guides, negotiated group air fare and accommodation packages, we also provide you with trip marketing material & fund-raising ideas to help your team get to Mexico.

We depart from Auckland on our flight to the US, and transfer by road to Baja, Mexico. After a rest day at the beach, we head out to the slums to meet the families we will be building for. Each home takes 15 people two days to build, and no prior building experience is necessary!

During the week, we will also visit a local orphanage, throw a party for the kids, and deliver food, toys and clothes to these precious, but very needy children. Once the house building is completed, we celebrate by hosting a street fiesta for the neighbours.

In the evenings, we return to our accommodation (hotel or condos) where there is time to explore the street markets and sample local cuisine. Our last day is spent enjoying the beautiful Baja Coastline between Rosarito and Calafia before crossing the border back to the US to catch our flight home. You also have the option to extend your stay (own cost and arrangements) a few more days to experience the highlights of San Diego and the surrounding area.

Special Group Leaders Discount

We recognize the work and effort that group leaders put into getting their groups together for a trip. As such we are pleased to offer group leaders a special discount from the cost of your trip.
